

Ag Minister meets cow calf assoc.

The Alberta Cow-Calf Association is looking forward to a New Year with a positive working relationship with the Minister of Agriculture, following a meeting in Elk Point last Wednesday.

Agriculture Minister Ernie Isley felt it was a "very good meeting. We sat down and got into a number of matters." He was presented with a position paper asking that input costs be lowered by renegotiation of interest rates for the Alberta Farm Credit Stabilization Program and that national tripartite stabilization programs be retained, and was also asked to consider extending the 1992 drought assistance water well drilling and dugout construction programs for another year.

While he "couldn't give any promises" on the first two issues, Isley agreed to work on extending the water programs, and speculated that the application deadline would be March 31, 1993, with work to be completed on wells, dugouts or emergency dugouts by the end of December 1993.

The Minister agreed with the Cow-Calf Association that the present tripartite stabilization programs have given stability to the livestock industry, and have "leveled the playing field across Canada." Isley said the beef industry has become "the stablest form of agriculture," with swine also very stable, although swine reflected less growth.

With Alberta's present debt, Isley said he "could not make a commitment" to pursue the five percent interest rate as proposed by the Cow-Calf Association for the Alberta Farm Credit Stability Program, but said he would "certainly look at reviewing" the present nine percent rate with an eye to making it "as reasonable as we can get." The AFCSP was termed by the Cow-Calf Association "one of the most important programs introduced by this government to help agriculture," and Isley agreed that the program "has achieved its objective."

Cow-Calf Association President Harvey Aarbo felt the meeting was "very productive" and commented that with new leadership for Alberta Progressive Conservatives and a new Premier, the Agriculture Minister will have "more responsibility, but more support from the Cabinet."

Runaway lengthening — can town afford it?

Whether the Town of Elk Point can afford to, or can afford not to, put funding toward lengthening the runway at Elk Point Municipal Airport was a prime topic of discussion at the final Town Council meeting of 1992. The County of St. Paul has advised the Town that they will support the extension to a maximum of $17,500, which would be approximately half of the remaining cost after grants from the Province and from the Canadian Business Aircraft Association.

Meetings are to be set up later this month with a representative of that association as well as with Regional Director of Transportation Henri Hetu to discuss the project further.

Mayor Ed Buck feels the project is one which should be worked toward, but at the least cost possible.

The Town of Elk Point has found new tenants for the old courthouse, which was vacated by the Bicentennial Society on December 31. Tony Wentworth of Cansafe Inc., a new company in Elk Point which provides safety training courses to industry, was on hand at the Council meeting to request the Town's consideration of renting him this facility, which has the office space and a large open area for his courses. Council later agreed to rent the space to Cansafe.

Council approved an interim budget for 1993 based on 1992 figures, which will be followed until the deliberations for the new budget are completed.

Town Council will be meeting with Minister of Municipal Affairs Dr. Stephen West later this month as part of West's tour of the province.

Vern King was delegated to attend the Annual Meeting of the Lakeland Tourist Association on January 16 in Vermilion as the Town's representative.

BYE BYE, BICENTENNIAL - Bicentennial Coordinator Billie Milholland spent New Year's Eve moving the year's accumulation of data and informational material out of the Project Headquarters. The Bicentennial is all over but the final reporting, which will be released shortly. Ms Milholland reminds everyone who has not picked up their Wagon Train envelopes that they must do so before Friday, January 8, at which time they will be otherwise disposed of. To do so, please call 724-3044.

A look back at 1992

A event-filled and exciting year, this 1992 just past. Twelve months filled to the brim with the Bicentennial, grand openings of the Seniors Recreation Centre and the Northern Lights Library System, dedication of three new parks, election of an almost entirely new Town Council and a new Premier, defeat of the infamous referendum, and all the day to day events that make up life in Elk Point. Let's, just briefly, take a look at the highlights of the year...

January

The Northern Lights Library System came to Elk Point January 6, and was housed in the old courthouse while awaiting their renovated headquarters...Capitol Raiders won the Atom Hockey Tournament...Snow forts dotted the scene as youngsters competed in the Great Bicentennial Snow Fort Competition...Deborah Grey toured the Beaver River riding, and told her Elk Point listeners that she felt the constitutional debate could be solved if all Canadians were equal in status and tried to get along with each other...Proposed changes to provincial electoral boundaries concerned Town Council, who planned a submission for a public hearing on the matter...A team from Medley won the Novice Hockey Tournament which kicked off Minor

Drug Store break-in

On the morning of Tuesday, December 29, 1992, three males entered the Capitol Drug Store through a back door of the building complex. Once inside, the subjects took approximately $3000 worth of cigarettes, comic books, cassette tapes and jewellery. One adult male and one youth have been arrested and charged with the offence, and a third adult male is still being sought in relation to this matter. Most of the property has been recovered. No names will be released pending further investigation by Elk Point RCMP.

CHRISTMAS GIFT FOR GOLF CLUB - Bryan Campbell (right) of Pan Canadian Petroleum presented a $10,000 gift to the Elk Point Golf and Country Club last week. Golf Club representatives (left to right) Mark Wilson, Dave Yake and Ed Buck were thrilled to accept the donation, which will go toward underground waterworks necessary for the grass greens the Club will install this summer. Campbell said that Pan Canadian targets their donations to projects which will benefit youth, and the high percentage of young golfers who are members of the Club prompted the donation. Pan Canadian also plans to donate an amount of pipe and a submersible pump, valued in total at more than $5000, toward the project.

tween 60 and 75 wells in operation...Town Council met with Fire Chief Ken Palamarek to study a request for an increase in honoraria for firemen.

John Stewart of Vermilion, one of the founding presidents of the Alberta Cow-Calf Association, said he had found the meeting "very helpful and productive. I'm sure Ernie understands our problems and will do his best. I'm hopeful for the coming year."

Cow-Calf Association directors Gerald Hill, Willingdon, and Hank Stach, Lamont, and Executive Secretary Alban Bugej of Elk Point were also in attendance at the meeting.

SUNCOR SUPPORTS COMMUNITY - Former Suncor employee Dan Demchuk (left) presented Phyllis Zarowny and Sid Holthe of the Elk Point Seniors' Recreation Centre with Suncor's 1992 Community Services Grant. Suncor has a policy of working hand in hand with their employees and retirees to enhance the communities in which these individuals live and operate. This is the third annual grant which has gone toward the Centre, and will go toward the new piano the Centre is purchasing.

JACK AND JILL PLAYSCHOOL

Jack and Jill Playschool was established to meet the needs of parents and preschool children in our community. It offers a learning and growing experience through PLAY within a suitable and safe environment for healthy growth and development. Socialization is the most important concept that the children learn in playschool. Understanding the concept of "playing together" and focusing one's attention are major ideas for three and four year olds. Learning through play is how we reach our objectives in playschool. Having a child on its own give up a toy to another is another excellent example of "playing together." Cooperation in the group, as a group, is what we are trying to achieve, we already know that these young children can function on their own as individuals but to work together within a group is an accomplishment that we can be very proud of. The playschool has been a program of the Family and Community Support Services since September, 1979. We work within the policies of the Alberta Social Services Daycare Licensing Policy Manual. We also are government inspected for our programming, care and facilities. The playschool is operated with the help and input of dedicated and caring parents.

BABYSITTING COURSE

At this time, dates and cost have not been finalized.

For more information or to put your child's name on the list, call Lynn at 724-3800.

Walking into 1993

At first glance, 1993 may seem like a dull year. No 'Leap' with a February 29; no Referendum in sight, no Olympics (that I've heard of). No Bicentennial, no Bridge Opening - whatever shall we do for excitement? Maybe a war? No. Let's not.

We could check the weather predictions for 1993; here I have my brand new Old Farmer's Almanac. Well... After reading through the predictions for the three western prairie regions - I don't even want to tell you. It goes from cold, to dry, to dry and cold, all through the whole year, with a few storms thrown in for good measure. Not a pretty picture, definitely not to my liking, and I'll try to ignore the whole story.

Aha! Here's a more interesting page. "How Long Will You Live?" it asks, and then shows a method to predict the outcome. It starts with the assumption that one is 65 or less, but I adjusted it to my three score years and fifteen, and by adding the bonuses and subtracting the penalties as listed, I see I shall live to be 102. Not too bad, as long as they don't run out of Pension funds before then. I'd hate to have to go back to farming at 95. I could start being groucher - a cheerful disposition adds five years.

Drinking can knock 5 to 10 years off, they say, depending how heavily one tips; recreational drugs will deplete your life span at least five years. Then old faithful, number one coffin nails, cigarettes, one pack a day can cut off five years, two packs per day will cost you ten. Regular brisk exercise will add considerably, as will a nice low-fat proper diet. Being married (and compatible) will add five years; only heavy squabbling will cut that down by half.

City life is bad for longevity; 2 years off, while small town or farm life gives you two extra. It's not good, they say, to be either too poor or too rich; either one will knock off two years. In the final run, you will live longer if you are healthy, and keep that way; and your very best bet was to pick parents and grandparents who went out of their way to live to a good old age.

Also, stay out of accidents and wear your seat belts. (My advice).

It looks like we will enjoy 10 or 11 Legal Holidays in Canada this year, depending if you count Easter Monday; it used to be that weekends were considered holidays, too, but now we know stores can and do remain open seven days a week (not all, true - but some). In our reckoning, we commenced our year 1993 at midnight of December 31, while the Japanese year, also commencing January 1, will be 2653. They started counting before we did. But then China (their New Year is January 23) will count this as year 4691, the Year of the Rooster... away ahead of us.

Winter, for us, started on December 21, 1992 at 7:43 a.m. MST, and will carry on until Spring springs, March 20, 1993, at 7:41 a.m. MST.

So now you have all the second-hand information I want to pass along, thanks to the good old O.F.A. for '93. I don't think any of it will change your life.

Some of the things I am looking forward to in the new year (hope for, anyway) are continued reasonably good health; visiting with family and friends; enjoying the sun and frost and snow and making long narrow tracks around the place. I'd like to see a few more birds, I've surely not had many at the feeders so far... maybe they don't like my seeds? They look alright to me - but then I don't eat them. No shortage of squirrels.

I hope to continue to enjoy, from my radio, "Gilbert's Albums," CBC Sunday noon hour. He plays the best of music, some almost as old as I am, and gives great profiles of the artists who perform; mostly classics, the opera singers, sopranos, basso profundos, the works, with pointers on what to listen for. A favorite program.

I hope too, to continue to hear the 1 p.m. Phone-In Show, again on CBC Radio, a super cross-section of the opinions, on any number of subjects, of my fellow Albertans. I don't always agree, but then, who does?

I should like to see more of family and friends; even here at my home. Perhaps they will be more tempted to come, now I have got over the rabies, rid the yard of spotted leopards and hoof rot, and promised to quit letting the air out of their tires.

I hope to travel a bit; haven't decided just where to yet. I only know there are many places I haven't seen yet, that are worth seeing, and I've got these really ex-

Our Past

Steve Andrishak

During the early 1930s, many of us boys looked forward to the time when Johnson's Lake (1 1/2 miles east of Elk Point) would freeze over so we could get in some early skating. The outdoor rink in Elk Point was never flooded until the first part of December and we used this lake until our ice was ready. We usually prepared an area about the size of a skating rink, where we spent countless hours skating and practicing hockey. During the 1930s, hockey equipment and skates were hard to come by - we were into the depression years and very few of us had money to spend on equipment and sticks. I recall when two of us boys uprooted a dry willow tree and somehow shaped it into a crude hockey stick. When no puck was available we used a frozen horse bun.

Equipment during the 1930s in no way resembled the equipment used today. In those days, players didn't wear helmets and the knee pads were lightly reinforced with bamboo strips. The entire cost of all your equipment including skates did not exceed $20. Uniforms, which consisted of a hockey sweater and a pair of stockings were ordered from the mail order catalogue. You had a choice between the blue Toronto Maple Leaf uniform or the red Montreal Canadian design.

Scanning through a 1924-25

Eatons catalogue, the following equipment was listed and priced. A pair of men's skates was sold for $5.95, (boys' skates were listed at $2.95), knee pads were sold for $1.25 and shoulder pads were priced at $1.95. Sweaters and matching stockings were listed at $5.95. Men's hockey sticks cost $1, children's sticks were priced at 50 cents. A goalkeeper had to pay $4.50 for his pads and an additional $1.50 for his stick. Goalkeeper's masks were unheard of at that time.

One of the first hockey games I recall seeing in Elk Point was during the winter of 1926. It was played on an outdoor rink which was located near where George Jacobson now lives. Some of the players that I recall who played on that Elk Point team were Dr. F.G. Miller, George Bartling, Russell Milholland, August Bartling and Lloyd Lambright. Elk Point's opponents that day were Mooswa (now Lindbergh). During the middle 1930s, Dr. F.G. Miller got a number of us boys interested in hockey and a Juvenile team was formed - this team remained intact for seven years with very few player changes. Dr. Miller not only managed this team, he was also the coach and provider of all our operational costs. All our games were played on an outdoor rink situated where the Elks' parking lot is located. The caretaker of this outdoor rink for many years was William Soldan. The rink was exposed to all the elements. Every time it snowed it had to be cleared off. Flooding it was always a problem, especially during extremely cold weather conditions when large cracks would appear causing many a dirty spill when your skate came in contact with a bad piece of ice.

During the 1930s every boy's favorite team was the Toronto Maple Leafs. Seldom did they miss Foster Hewitt's Saturday night radio broadcast. For some unknown reason most of us had no love for the Montreal Canadiens or the rugged Boston Bruins.

During this early period most of the hockey players played for the love of the game. There were no hockey scouts at that time making their rounds throughout the country looking for players who had professional talent.

Most of the good players were developed in larger centres where the players were able to get good coaching.

Today, every young boy dreams of becoming a Wayne Gretzky, a Mario Lemieux or an Eric Lindros. These boys no doubt also dream of the fabulous salaries which in many cases exceed well over a million dollars. Many of us who follow professional hockey feel that the game as it is played in the NHL today has developed into a game of greed. These players now are represented by lawyers who go all out for the top dollar. It seems that no matter how much these players make they seem to think they are still being underpaid. (Their average yearly salary exceeds $400,000).

It is hard to believe that during the 1934-35 NHL hockey season the highest priced player received $5000. His name was Charlie Conacher, who played with the famous Toronto Maple Leaf "kid line". His teammates were Harvey 'Busher' Jackson and Joe Primeau. At that time there were only six teams playing in the NHL. Today there are 24.

New Books

Canada's First Nations by Olive Dickason is a history of Amerindian and Inuit experience from the arrival thousands of years ago of people from Asia. Relying on archaeological, artistic and linguistic evidence, the author points to the likelihood of pre-Columbian contact with China and the Mediterranean, suggesting that Canada's earliest settlers must have been ocean-going sailors.

Heather Robertson, author of the award-winning "Willie: A Romance" and the 1991 best seller "More Than A Rose" takes the roofs off Ottawa's Parliament Building in her new book On The Hill and shows us its MPs, senators and staff at work, some three thousand people, from cleaners to cabinet ministers.

Feeding Your Baby In The Nineties, Louise Lambert - Legace's down-to-earth approach to feeding your baby, from conception to the age of two, is based on the latest nutrition findings.

The Living Heart Brand Name Shopper's Guide by Michael DeBakey - This book gives you over 5000 brand name foods that are low in fat, saturated fat, and cholesterol. This book takes the guesswork out of selecting from over 30,000 food and non-food items in supermarkets.

For our littlest patrons we have some interesting books. Can't You Sleep, Little Bear? by Martin Waddell - "I don't like the dark," said Little Bear. "What dark?" said Big Bear. "The dark all around," said Little Bear. In this tender account of a sleepless night in the Bear Cave, Big Bear sets out with all his patience and understanding to put an end to Little Bear's bedtime fears.

The Loveables: In The Kingdom Of Self-Esteem by Diane Loomans - I AM LOVEABLE! I AM LOVEABLE! I AM LOVEABLE! By using the magic words, the gates to the kingdom of self-esteem swing open for readers of all ages. Inside the Kingdom live twenty four animals, the Lovables, each one with a special gift to contribute.

pensive new glasses, the better to see them with, my dear. But not until spring. Winter is the time for staying close to home, keeping warm, and - I hope - sorting those hundreds of photos I've accumulated over the years; maybe even discarding some.

As this is the start of a fine new year, I will wish all my friends, and all my family, a truly wonderful year, filled with good health, love and happiness. My sincere thanks to Vicki and Faye, who are patient and kind to me. My thanks to those neighbors who stop in now and then, who help me with my minor problems. Sincere thanks to the County snowplow driver, who keeps my drive free of snow. I am most grateful. And to all hands, I wish you all the best in 1993. Walk bravely into that new dawn.
